Mayflower Resort Impact on Wasatch County Is Unclear

Over the next 18 years, the face of Wasatch County will change drastically, as the giant Mayflower recreation development is built.

Will it be a boon for the county and its 8,400 residents, or will it spell disaster? It depends on who is talking.

It has taken 11 years for developers to put the package together, work out the necessary compromises, sign contracts and agree to stipulations imposed by Wasatch County before the county finally put the stamp of approval on it last week.

Bob Mathis, Wasatch County planning director, said the Dutch partnership developing the project, Stichting Mayflower Mountain Fonds and Stichting Mayflower Recreational Fonds, owns 6,000 acres in the area.

The land is approximately eight miles north of Heber City near the old Mayflower Mine, in the vicinity of Keely Station. Some 4,600 acres will be included in the project, with 2,700 acres in the development area. About 90 percent of the 6,000 acres will be open space.

Since Deer Valley is already using part of the property for its existing and planned ski runs, Mayflower will be developed in coordination with Deer Valley and will be operated through an agreement among Deer Valley, Mayflower and Wasatch County.

Overall, the development will cost an estimated $750 million to complete over the next 18 years, according to Mathis.

He pointed out that Deer Valley's Sterling ski lift is partly in Summit County, but part lies within the Mayflower property. The Wasatch lift and Sulton lift are both within the project area. The "K" lift is not yet in, and the new Mayflower lift is under construction now.

A new "transportation lift" is planned from the Mayflower commercial center into Silver Lake where the upper lift of Deer Valley is located.

Development will take place in stages. Because of fear that the massive project could not be

Cameroon Plane Fire Kills Many

DOUALA, Cameroon (UPI) — A fire possibly caused by a bomb swept through an airliner on the airport runway today, killing several of the 108 passengers, officials said.

An official at the control tower in the Cameroonian capital of Yaounde said he received information indicating some 70 people may have died in the fire on the Boeing 737 as it taxied before take off.

Cameroon Airlines would confirm only that there had been an accident on the morning flight and there were "several" deaths. The airline refused to give a more precise estimate until further investigation. Government authorities in the former French colony in west Africa also refused any estimate on numbers of dead or injured.

Five hours after the blaze, an anonymous caller telephoned the Gabon-based radio station Africa No. 1, to say a bomb was planted on the plane. He said a group calling itself the Cameroon Pathe government-run Philippine News Agency said 28 people died in landslides and floods triggered by the storm.

Soviets Mass Troops Near Pakistanis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department reported Wednesday a buildup of Soviet military forces in the eastern part of Afghanistan, but a spokesman said it apparently is not a preparation for a push into Pakistan.

"We see any buildup of Soviet forces in the east of Afghanistan as a part of Soviet strategy against the Afghan resistance and not as preparation for a major ground incursion into Pakistan," department spokesman John Hughes said.

Because of the rugged terrain along the unmarked border between Pakistan and Afghanistan, however, the State Department said it expects continued violations of Pakistani territory by aircraft and ground forces.

Hughes said the Soviet buildup in Paktia province, adjacent to Pakistan south of the Khyber pass, appears designed to open the road to the major city of Ghazni, where Afghan government troops have been besieged by rebels, many of whom slip back and forth across the border.

The attempt, the department said, is consistent with the recent pattern of fighting in which Soviet troops have been taking a larger role.

Pakistan has reported numerous violations of its airspace by military jets and helicopters, some of which have the Afghan government insignia. It is not known whether they are flown by Afghan or Soviet pilots.

Pakistan has countered by beefing up its air defenses. It has been provided with U.S. F-16 fighters, radar and other equip-

More Ships Searching For Mines in Red Sea

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — British, Italian and Soviet minesweepers have transited the Suez Canal to join a two-week international search for mines in the area that so far had found just one shell — left from the Arab-Israeli wars.

Published reports last week on the spotting of five mine-like objects by the U.S. task force were dismissed by an Egyptian official Wednesday.

"These were only empty barrels," he said.

The official told reporters only a shell was found Tuesday by the British mine-hunter HMS Wilton, which sailed into the Gulf of Suez Wednesday.

President Hosni Mubarak, meanwhile, received an invitation Wednesday from Sudanese President Jaafar Numeiry to attend a conference on the "security of the Red Sea," the Middle East News Agency reported.

It was not disclosed when and where the conference will take place. The idea of holding such a conference was initially proposed by Egypt a few weeks ago to develop a plan for securing freedom of navigation in the Red Sea.

The Wilton sailed through the Suez Canal into the Gulf of Suez, at the northern end of the Red Sea, Wednesday afternoon, finally docking at Adabiya Naval base next to four other British vessels and their support ship.

Walesa Warns of Anger

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Solidarity founder Lech Walesa urged Poland's communist authorities Wednesday to begin negotiations over demands for free trade unions and other democratic reforms, or face a "spontaneous explosion of despair and give a speech if there is an opportunity."

The former union chief planned to deliver his speech in front of a monument in memory of shipyard workers killed by police during demonstrations in 1970.

The caller said the group had not intended to injure people. He gave no motive for the attack and said his group supported neither the government of President Paul Biya nor exiled former Cameroonian leader Ahmadou Ahidjo — who was sentenced in absentia to death early this year for allegedly plotting a coup in April 1983. He is living in France and his death sentence was commuted in March 1984.

Kahane Kept Out of Town

UMM EL FAHM, Israel (UPI) — Anti-Arab Rabbi Meir Kahane's ballyhooed trip to Israel's biggest Arab village ended with his detention in a police station and the village convulsed in a stone-throwing riot. Twenty people were injured.

Bundled into a police van to a police station about 1.5 miles from Umm El Fahm, the American-born Kahane was stopped Wednesday from entering the village because of the danger of violence and was held briefly despite his immunity as a member of Israel's Parliament, the Knesset.

Kahane, 52, founder of the U.S.-based Jewish Defense League, also said he would appeal his detention to the Israel Supreme Court.

Israel television said Kahane seeks to expel all 2.2 million Arabs from Israel and its occupied territories.

Since his election to Parliament July 23, Kahane had boasted he
